- You're curious. You're interested in learning about all the exciting things we're working on at Mary S. Biesecker, Laurel Arts, and Somerset, Inc.
- You're reliable. You can stick to a schedule, respond to things in a timely fashion, and remember things that need remembering.
- You're great at communication. You're able to think on your feet and be flexible while keeping your cool. You are tech-savvy and can communicate through multiple mediums.
- You like to learn and challenge yourself. You're a go-getter who brings new ideas to the table and jumps at the chance to try something new.

What will you do?

You'll help run community spaces. You'll welcome visitors, participate in event setup and service projects (requires lifting) and generally keep things humming. Some evening and weekend time will be required.

You'll act as a liaison between Mary S. Biesecker Library, Laurel Arts, and Somerset, Inc. to help us to support each other in the best possible ways.

You'll help shape the future of Somerset. This is a new partnership with three non-profits with rich history and exciting progressive plans.

What will you get?

- You'll get to know some tremendous people. Our connections are deep and broad and you will work with a diverse group of individuals. We know this isn't going to be your lifetime career but these connections will take you places.
- You'll have fun. We are driving change and we're having fun in the process.
